Bishop Hall and the Rev. Wimbledon, London, June 20 .- Ted Schroeder, in pain from . cramp in his racquet hand, today won a tremendous All-American . five-set battle in the opening round of the Wimbledon tennis championship from his friend and doubles partner, Gardner Mulloy. He triumphed by 3-6, 9-11, 6-1, 6-0, 7-5.

All the other seeded players also got through the first round.

Schroeder, top seed and favourite for the event, which can rank as the world's amateur championship, showed his worry as unseeded Mulloy, ranked eighth in the United States, jumped into a one-set lead and fought back with streaking passing shots after being 2-4 down in the second set. The Miami lawyer reeled off three games, but he was unable to clinch the set before the 20th game.

The Californian was in his stride in the third set and squared the match at two sets all. The game challenger came from behind to level things at three all in the deciding set, but could not get his nose in front. The end of the encounter, labelled the "first round final" by many, came as an anti-climax.

It is virtually certain that the United States, Britain, the Scandinavian countries and the POCKET CARTOON Benelux countries will be represented.

Australia, New Zealand, the Middle East and Asiatic - trade union movements may also attend as most of them already have representatives in Switzerland attending the conference of the International Labour Office. For the first time, the new International will bring together the American - Federation of Labour and the six-million strong Congress of Industrial Organisations in one world movement. Both will be represented in the new world labour body,
